

We oppose Extremism regardless of where it takes place or by whom. Some people take extreme measures in their lives and that is a way they decide to live their lives. When people force those extreme measures upon others and expect them to follow their lifestyle the society reacts and human rights violations have taken place on a small scale.

Extremism is noticed in every ideology, faith, religion, cult, movement, or opinion and as long as it is not carried under the umbrella of another cause, it is easier to identify and deal with. The Taliban, Boko Haram and White Supremacy groups alike recruit individuals using common techniques and promise similar paradises. Both promote their own cause and turn a blind eye towards ideologies they disagree with. Both try to get rid of anyone who disagrees with them and aim to become the only dominating power and try to control their territories by infusing fear into the hearts of people.

Taliban and Boko Haram do this using religion of Islam as their umbrella and the White Supremacists use Christianity as their umbrella shield. Both are wrong in our opinion, and religion should not be dragged into the agenda of extremist groups.

Extremism is a mindset and can surface in many ways. It can show itself in different skin-color, faith, gender, religion, age and it takes a collective effort to control and eliminate it. Join our team & become an element of positive change.

We look for individuals who either want to volunteer their time and donate their expertise and help us advance causes of human rights. We will identify laws that are biased against religion and religious practices or target religious minorities and advocate for change using legal terminals.
