

Women Rights require different approaches in different places. Women rights in the African continent varies from women rights in Europe or elsewhere. Some women still have to be careful not to be abducted by extremist groups in Africa by groups like Boko Haram, and elsewhere, some other women may be cautious not to be targeted by the Taliban and prosecuted inhumanely. We respect that Islamic Laws should be followed in countries that are Islamic, but when it comes to legal actions against someone; true teachings of Islam should be considered, which is ultimately a lifestyle of being peaceful and offering peace. The extremist groups apply their own mentality and enforce laws put by themselves instead of laws put forth by the religion.

We ask you to reach out to us if you like to join our vibrant team of individuals who take every opportunity to defend women rights globally. Extremism has no boundaries and nor should humanitarian work.

At Freemuslim, we monitor the news for extremist behavior and analyze the circumstances. Oftentimes when a trend is noticed, we conduct detailed research on root causes of extremism in that area.

With the help of our volunteers and interns we have been able to change some laws Nationally and are in the middle of long-term work on issues concerning women internationally.
